Students participate in Career Day

12/7/2007 5:36 PM

OWEGO, N.Y. -- Eight graders in Owego got a chance to see what awaits them in the future.

The school held its 18th annual career day Friday. Students listened to presenters from more than 20 fields like architecture, veterinary medicine and engineering. They also went on tours of local radio stations, the county jail and businesses in the area. Presenters say its never too early to think about future careers.

"I hope that they can see that starting from fairly simple beginnings like I did here as just one of 300 sum graduating students, that to reach a high level like becoming one of the 32 doctors in the NFL is really a reachable goal for anybody," said John Marzo, Buffalo Bills Team Physician.

The students will go to conferences in February to help shape the direction of their classes in high school.
