

OA's new teachers

August 31, 2007

Stephen P. Jensen photos

Owego Apalachin's new teachers for 2007-08 met early this week for orientation, which included some computer training. Above, they took a moment for a group photo on the steps in the OFA library.

At far left, Scott Senko (OAMS eighth-grade science teacher), and at left, Amanda Heath (OES second-grade teacher), work in the high school computer lab during a training session.

At left: Bob Farrell, OA's chief information officer, takes the new teachers through a session on GroupWise earlier this week.

Below left, from left to right: Rosa Chalusant (OAMS special education), Bernie Dolan (OA associate superintendent) and Erin Walsh (OFA Spanish).

Below, from left to right: Scott Senko (OAMS science), Amanda Heath (OES second grade), Sarah Thorson (OAMS English teaching assistant), Kathy Kuligowski (OAMS math teaching assistant), Lindsey Williams (OES band/instrumental) and Ryan Cirbus (AES band/instrumental).

Above, left to right: Jennifer Goodwin (AES fourth grade) and Tara Quirino (AES long-term kindergarten substitute). At right, left to right: Toni Skiff (OFA nurse) and Jessica Heidel (OFA special education).