District to host technology showcase

The Owego-Apalachin Central School District will again host the Southern Tier Educational Technology Showcase on Oct. 20 at the new Owego Apalachin Middle School, 3 Sheldon Guile Blvd., Owego.

STETS showcases strategies and resources used by local teachers to integrate educational technology. On the day of the event, 15 different workshops are offered. Topics range from "Blackboard as a Teaching Tool" to "Blogging in the Classroom" to "Using GPS: Hands On." Other topics focus on developing videos, digital photography, iMovies, a Smartboard presentation, and podcasting.

The goal of the event, said Kathy Harasta, senior program assistant at the Teacher Center of Broome County and one of the organizers, is for teachers to be exposed to new technology in education, and in a relaxing atmosphere. "It's a showcase, not a conference. They're being shown, but they don't have to worry about learning the technology that day," said Harasta, who added that participants may request follow-up training at the Teacher Center of Broome County.

This is the fifth year for the conference, she said, and in its first few years, about 70 educators attended. Last year, though, as STETS has grown in popularity, workshop opportunities were expanded so that 120 people could attend.
