One 6th grader at Owego- Apalachin Middle School had a special visitor today. Sergeant Matt Woodburn surprised his pen pal, Brianna Cart this morning in her classroom.

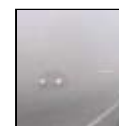

For the last 9 months Woodburn has been deployed in Baghdad. The 11 year old has been sending him letters and packages filled with things he can't get overseas.

Like chips, drink mixes, gum, and candy.

He says she's done something extra special to show support for what he's doing, and wanted to thank her.

So today he brought her a stuffed camel, an Army shirt and a key-chain. And she was quite surprised to meet him.

Cart says the experience has really impacted her life. Woodburn isn't the first soldier Cart's written to. She's been pen pals with 2 other soldiers over the past 2 and a half years. Coming up tonight on Action News at 6, find out what it means for Woodburn to have the support of a stranger when he's fighting overseas.
